BREADFRUIT AGROFORESTRY
Regenerating abundant, resilient, and profitable landscapes

TWO WORKSHOPS ON OAHU
Thursday, March 15, 2018
8:30 am – 4:00 pm
UH Waimanalo Experiment Station
• Waimanalo, Oahu •
Friday, March 16, 2018
8:30 am – 4:00 pm
Foster Botanical Garden
• Honolulu, Oahu •

Expand your knowledge in many areas from planting to maintaining to consuming breadfruit. This one-day workshop (offered twice on consecutive days) is for growers, processors, sellers, consumers, chefs/restaurateurs, educators, policymakers, and others interested in regenerating breadfruit.

TOPICS AND PRESENTERS
‘Ulu, a blessing of aloha—Dr. Failautusi Avegalio, UH Pacific Business Center Program
Working with breadfruit varieties—Dr. Diane Ragone, Breadfruit Institute, NTBG
Regenerative agroforestry with breadfruit—Craig Elevitch, Agroforestry Net & Ho‘oulu ka ‘Ulu
Breadfruit tree planting, care, and pruning—Heidi Bornhorst, Pruning for Productivity
Organic techniques for breadfruit—Ted Radovich, UH Sustainable and Organic Farming
Establishment and management—Noel Dickinson, Breadfruit Institute, NTBG
Experiences growing and selling fresh breadfruit—Charlie Reppun, Waianu Farm, Waiahole

Registration and information: www.breadfruit.info or call 415-766-9662

Space is limited. Advance registration required.
$35 per person
(Lunch included)